■ Clergyman fined after illegally dumping waste

FLYTIPPING MINISTER

A CHURCH minister, who dumped 18 bags of rubbish, was caught after letters to him were found amongst the waste.

Manoj Abraham, 35, was being driven by his wife when he dumped the waste at two spots near Shenington.

The Warwick Road, Banbury, resident last week pleaded guilty to disposing of waste without a permit at Banbury Magistrates' Court.

By Oliver Evans

The bags - in an unclassified road between the A4260 Stratford Road and Shenington - were spotted by a Cherwell District Council officer. Letters with Abraham's name, church title and address were among the contents. The council did not have the church name.

The council said it contacted Abraham and his wife, who were then interviewed under caution.

He admitted that he had he dumped the rubbish because they had gone to a tip that was closed and the waste had started to smell.

Chairman of the bench John Kearsey told him at last week's hearing: "We take a very dim view of flytipping. It blights the countryside.

"Someone has to clean up after you - it does not get taken away by the pixies and it lowers the quality of life for everyone."

Abraham was fined £200, told to pay a £20 victims' surcharge and £502.06 costs.

Cherwell's "clean and green" chief Nigel Morris said: "Every action has a reaction, and unfortunately in the case of flytipping that act is always negative.

"Rubbish which is illegally dumped not only creates an eyesore and poses a risk to wildlife but costs taxpayers thousands of pounds every year to clean up.

"Fortunately in this case, the costs will be met by Mr Abraham -who has not only inherited an expensive clean-up bill, but a criminal record in the process."

The council said it aimed to "investigate all fly tips within 24 hours and, when on public or council land, remove within two working days".

Contact the council on 01295 227001.

Echoes of the stars

VISITORS to the Banbury Museum this summer have had stars in their eyes.

The museum's free "Celebrity" exhibition, which runs until Saturday, has a number of items on display that once belonged to famous faces, including a dress worn by American actress Marilyn Monroe.

Events and exhibition officer Dale Johnston said: "People are surprised to see these things in Banbury."

Some of the other items donated to the museum include a pair of American actor and dancer Fred Astaire's leather spectator shoes and a draft script of the film Titanic from May 1996, signed by film director James Cameron and actor Leonardo DiCaprio.

■ Burglar had masked and armed accomplices

Man is jailed for part in gang raid

A BURGLAR who raided a flat with two others, who were masked and armed, has been jailed for four-and-a-half years.

Ashley Poulter, of Sussex Drive, Banbury, admitted aggravated burglary, possession of Class-B drugs and damage to property.

The 25-year-old was not masked or armed when he raided the flat in Northumberland Court, Banbury, but his two balaclava-clad companions were carrying a Taser and a flick knife.

During the burglary, at about 10.45pm on February 10 this year, one of the three occupants, Sean Jones, who knew Poulter, was stabbed.

Jane Davies, prosecuting, told the hearing at Oxford Crown Court that Poulter began punching and assaulting Mr Jones and a fight happened in the living room, during which Mr Jones was stabbed with the knife.

The trio took Mr Jones' wallet, but it is not known how much cash was in it. Ms Davies said: "Very fortunately the wound, having been explored, was superficial."

By Emma Harrison

She added: "Clearly it wasn't Poulter who was responsible for the stabbing. It was the other man."

Steven Hadley, defending, said: "He does express genuine remorse, which I invite the court to take into account."

Sentencing, Judge Charles Harris said: "It was a joint enterprise, which probably had something to do with drugs."

"Although you are only 25, you have 13 previous convictions for 22 offences, including one burglary and others for violence."

"You will appreciate burglary is a serious offence, more so when accompanied by violence."

Poulter was also ordered to pay a victim surcharge of £120.

Labour councillor who served his community for 30 years

'Voice of town' loses his battle against cancer

A MAN described as "the voice for Chipping Norton", who represented the town as mayor and on all three local councils, has died.

Rob Evans, 64, joined Chipping Norton Town Council 30 years ago and also served on West Oxfordshire District Council and Oxfordshire County Council.

He raised thousands of pounds for the town hall, organised litter picks and was a trustee of the town's Ace children's centre.

Two days before his death on Sunday, he received a merit award for his work for the Labour Party, signed by leader Ed Miliband.

Suzanne McRae, who had known Mr Evans for 30 years, said: "There wasn't much you could dislike about Rob. He was selfless, generous and great company."

"He always wanted to squeeze the last drop out of the day and out of life itself."

By Tom Jennings

He never wanted to admit that time was up and he could do no more – even at the end.

"Cancer has again robbed us of someone willing to put others and the good of the community first."

Duncan Enright, the Labour group leader on West Oxfordshire District Council, said: "He was a great man. He was very bright and incredibly committed to people."

"He understood the fabric of Chipping Norton better than most. He was the voice for Chipping Norton."

Labour district councillor Eve Coles said: "I shall miss Rob a lot. I have known him for 30 years. He was great with the Ace Centre."

Mr Evans was brought up in Baker, Wales, the son of a baker. He spoke Welsh as a first language.

He attended Oswestry

Councillor and former mayor Rob Evans

School in Shropshire and read history at Edinburgh University before training as a teacher in Bristol.

He became a history teacher at Chipping Norton School in 1973, and moved to Banbury Technical College four years later.

He took voluntary redundancy when he was 53, but continued working as an exam marker and tutor for the Open University.

He was a governor of Chipping Norton School from 1996 to 2009.

He was elected to the town council in 1983 and served on the county council from 1997 to 2005 and the district council since May 2012.

He was mayor of Chipping Norton in 1995 and stepped down from the town council in 2011.

Mr Evans, who was made a free citizen of the town last month, ran guided tours of Chipping Norton.

He had been battling stomach and oesophagus cancer.

Deputy mayor Chris Butterworth said: "Rob was a person who greatly cared for Chippy in every aspect, from cleaning the streets to the bigger issues."

"He was a founding member of the Friends of the Town Hall and in three years managed to collect £18,000 for its upkeep."

District council leader Barry Norton said: "Rob was one of life's real gentlemen and an excellent, hard-working politician."

West Oxfordshire District Council was due to pay tribute to Mr Evans, who was not married and did not have children, yesterday.

Fundraiser for 999 copter

■ MORE than 1,000 people are expected to attend a charity beer festival being held in support of an air ambulance service. The festival has been organised by Sam Hoggins, who was airlifted from a crash by the Warwickshire and Northamptonshire Air Ambulance three years ago. There is no entry fee for the event at the Brasenose Arms, on Station Road, Cropredy, but all the money raised from the beer tent will go to charity. The event takes place from 3pm on Friday and runs until 7pm on Sunday.

Health advice

■ BANBURY residents can learn about local groups that offer health activities and services at an event on Saturday. Cherwell District Council will host the Connecting Communities event at the Spiceball Leisure Centre, Cherwell Drive, from 9am to 1pm. Details: 01295 221575.

Interview skills

■ YOUNG people will be able to get free advice on interview skills at an event run by the charity BYHP at its Chandos Close offices from 10am to 4pm on Thursday, September 12 for people aged 16 to 25. To book, call 01295 259442.

Views sought on planning

VIEWS are being sought on a plan that could have an impact on future housing developments in Deddington.

Deddington Parish Council is to draw up a neighbourhood plan, followed by a public vote.

This will have to be taken into account when Cherwell District Council makes decisions on planning applications for new homes and other developments.

Decision over school bus charges is delayed again

A DECISION on whether to charge school bus fares for parents who don't choose their nearest secondary school will be deferred again.

In July, Oxfordshire County Council delayed a decision on whether to save £340,000 by charging for some home-to-school transport.

It was put back after it was announced the Government reviewed its guidelines on charging for the service.

The council was to revisit the plans in this month, but now says this will happen later because it has not had any guidance from the Government.

Cabinet member for education Melinda Tilley said: "With each week that ticks by without any update it becomes less likely that we will be able to reconult this month and then go to cabinet for decision in November."

The Conservative said: "We're completely in the hands of central Government and we will only be able to give people certain dates and times when officials in London have made clear the national framework, within which we and all councils in the country must work."

"However, it is looking certain that the consultation will begin much later into the autumn."

The council had been hoping to introduce the school bus charges in September 2014, but will now have to wait until 2015 at the earliest.

Campaigners had accused the council of failing to notify schools, governors and parents and not giving them enough time to respond.

More than 1,300 people signed a petition opposing the move.

■ Event 'helps understanding of how churches are maintained'

Cyclists are to saddle up to help local churches

HUNDREDS of cyclists and walkers are set to travel between 520 Oxfordshire churches to raise money for charity.

The annual Ride and Stride, organised locally by Oxfordshire Historic Churches

By Charlotte Krol

Trust, will see more than 700 people take part to raise funds for churches on Saturday, September 14, by either walking or cycling. Last year's event raised £120,925, with the funds split between churches nominated by each participant and the Oxfordshire Historic Churches Trust.

Adderbury resident John Frost, 67, who has been taking part in the event for 20 years, said: "I'm feeling good about it but it gets harder for me every year. I think it's important because it creates a bigger understanding of how these churches are maintained."

He added that he would give the money he raises to St Mary's Church, Adderbury, where he lives.

Charlotte Holmes, a member of the congregation at St Mary's, said the Ride and Stride helped the church when it needed its roof repaired seven years ago.

She said: "We were trying to find £225,000 and the Oxfordshire Historic Churches Trust gave us a very generous grant from the event."

The Bishop of Dorchester, Rt Rev Colin Fletcher, will also be taking part and previous years have seen the Bishop of Oxford, Rt Rev John Pritchard, join hundreds of riders and striders.

Churches across the county will have forms for people to sign to record their progress on the day and some will have church members greeting the participants.

John Morrison, of the Oxfordshire Historic Churches Trust, who is helping organise the Ride and Stride, said he was feeling 'confident' about the amount of money that could be raised.

The 75-year-old said: "It's enormous fun. People go running in groups and local communities support each other."

"We had people riding horses last year and a family with a five-year-old riding a scooter, a two-and-a-half-year old on a skateboard and the smallest child bouncing on a space hopper."

Up to ten per cent of the costs for repair work for churches in the county is provided by the Oxfordshire Historic Churches Trust via the event.

Basil Eastwood, who works for the trust, said: "It is financially important and it's a good day out."

Why I owe my life to a hero doctor

By Katriona Ormiston

DESPITE living at risk of sudden death for 12 years, an ex-MoD worker from Banbury put off his heart surgery.

But Tim Betts, heart consultant at the John Radcliffe Hospital, persuaded Carl Portman to have the operation which changed his life.

Mr Portman, now 49, from Hanwell village, nominated Dr Betts as his Hospital Hero.

The awards were launched by the Oxford University Hospitals NHS Trust to recognise hidden heroes.

Mr Portman said: "It was a huge turning point. I do not let my illness define me anymore."

"I very likely owe my life to his skills and expertise. It has enabled me to continue with my life – to marry the girl of my dreams, to ride with huskies in Norway, to wake to Howler Monkeys in Costa Rica and yes, even to do simple things like walk up the stairs and mow the lawn."

Mr Portman worked for the Ministry of Defence for 30 years before becoming a consultancy company director.

He was diagnosed with a heart condition called arrhythmogenic right ventricular dysplasia at 28 years old.

The genetic defect can cause either sudden cardiac arrest or his heartbeat to rocket dangerously.

■ Patient has nominated heart expert

But until he was 40, he resisted having an Implanted Cardioverter Device, which acts as pacemaker and defibrillator in one, as he was apprehensive and didn't think it would benefit him.

He finally elected to have the operation after being persuaded by Dr Betts in 2004.

Eight years later he married his wife, Susan, the first girl he ever asked out as a teenager.

Dr Betts, from Beckley, said: "I feel very honoured and touched to have been nominated. It's always rewarding to be appreciated for what you do, even though one doesn't expect it."

"It's nice to know that you have made a positive difference to people's lives. That is, after all, why so many of us are in the healthcare profession."

"It seems unfair to be singled out as I am just part of an excellent team, but at the same time I am extremely pleased."

The Hospital Hero awards give Oxfordshire residents the chance to choose a staff member or a team to thank them for their work.

Only staff employed by Oxford University Hospitals NHS Trust at the John Radcliffe, Churchill, Horton hospitals and the Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre are eligible for the award.

● To nominate someone as a "Hospital Hero", write your name, address, date of birth, telephone number, and email address above the name of the person or team you would like to nominate, along with a 250-word synopsis on why you have nominated them.

The deadline is September 30.

Send your letter to Hospital Heroes, Communications Office, Level 3, John Radcliffe Hospital, Headley Way, Oxford, OX3 9DU. Winners will be announced as part of the Oxford University Hospitals' annual staff awards in November.

Officer urges nursery refusal

A BID to replace a village nursery should be refused despite a chorus of support, a council planning officer has said.

Some 35 letters and a 112-signature petition support the plan for The Village Nursery, Shenington, to go at Shenington Gliding Club, by Rattlecombe Road, near Banbury.

Yet Cherwell District Council's

Rebekah Morgan said the plan – which would replace the nursery at Shenington Village Hall – is "not suitably located" as it does not have "suitable" pedestrian links.

The committee will meet at Bodicote House, White Post Road, Bodicote today at 4pm.

The public can attend.

Top issues identified

■ ROAD crimes, theft and anti-social behaviour have been identified as crime-fighting priorities for the Banbury area. The Neighbourhood Action Group survey, involving 681 people, highlighted the issues as concerns. Acting Sergeant Richard Miller, from the Banbury Rural police team, said: "This online survey has aided the NAG in producing a snapshot of community issues and has allowed us to intelligently identify areas of concern."

Bilking hunt

■ A PETROL thief has taken more than £300 of fuel from garages in the Banbury area. Police are seeking the driver of a stolen silver Nissan Micra, which has made off at least three times from garages without payment, taking more than £100 worth of fuel each time. The crimes happened between August 27 and 29. The driver wore a fluorescent jacket and had cans in the car to fill up. Anyone with information is asked to call police on 101.

■ Young dancers earn honour of appearing on stage with top professionals

Ballet dream comes true

YOUNG dancers from across Oxfordshire are mastering ballet moves at rehearsals for a production of Swan Lake.

Fifty-five young dancers have been selected by the English Youth Ballet Company to appear in three performances of Tchaikovsky's ballet at Oxford's New Theatre in September.

Among those taking part are Sophie Laing, 15, Amy Matthews, 15, Darcey Shaw, nine, and Rachel Thompson, 12.

The dancers who come from all over the county were selected at auditions in May

By Andrew Ffrench

from over 250 hopefuls and began 10 days of rehearsals on Wednesday at the Oxford Academy in Littlemore.

They will perform alongside the youth ballet's principal artists in a production to gain an insight into what life is like as a professional ballet dancer.

Darcey, who trains at the Bernadine Soul School of Dance, said: "I'm nine now and I started dancing at the age of two. I love the way ballet is so graceful and flowing."

"I am looking forward to performing. When I grow up I would like to be a ballet teacher or a gym coach."

Each rehearsal starts with the company being split into three groups for warm-ups.

At the end of the rehearsals, the company will discuss what has been learned.

Assistant artistic director Julianne Rice-Oxley said: "The young dancers we are working with have great energy and attack."

The production is being staged at the theatre in George Street, Oxford, on Friday, September 20, at 7.30pm and on Saturday, September 21, at 2.30pm and at 7.30pm.

Police issue alert after spate of thefts in Banbury

RESIDENTS in and around Banbury have been told to stay vigilant following a spate of burglaries.

Significant amounts of jewellery, cash, clothing and even cars have been stolen from 15 homes and drives in just over a month.

Police say it is too early to say if the crimes are linked but have not ruled it out.

The first occurred on July 16 at Homestead Road on the Cherwell Heights estate in Banbury where a grey Mercedes C350 estate AMG sport was stolen.

Later the same day a distraction burglary was disrupted at a house in Gillet Road, Banbury, after the victim spotted two men inside his house.

And the same day in Windrush, Banbury, thieves forced open the rear patio door of a home and took boots, trainers, bracelets, various perfumes and cash.

On August 8, jewellery was stolen from a home in East Close, and on the same day unsuccessful attempts were made to burgle homes in Bankside and Ferriston.

A week later on August 15, jewellery and cash were stolen from a home in Lapsley Drive, and on Tuesday of last week a man distracted the home owner while two other men targeted a house in Danesmoor, escaping with cash and foreign currency.

If you have any information about any of these incidents, call police on 101.

■ Honour for the founder of multiple sclerosis support group

Young MS sufferer Jo 'an inspiration to all'

NURSE Jo Hardiman was a 27-year-old newlywed when she was first diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis.

Eight years on, the disease may have cost her her job, a marriage and her dreams of becoming a mother, but it has made her an inspiration to some of the county's other young MS sufferers.

Jo Hardiman, from Chipping Norton, has received this year's Oxford MS Young Inspiration Award.

The annual award was given to Ms Hardiman for her work setting up and organising MSsy – a young MS sufferers' group – as well as for her continuing support for fellow sufferers.

One of many touching citations read out during the awards said: "Jo exudes positivity and proves herself to be a considerate and informative friend to many MSers."

Ms Hardiman, a former cancer nurse, said: "It was a real highlight in eight very difficult years.

"My parents were really thrilled, but to be truthful I don't feel like I am doing anything really special."

She had just celebrated her 27th birthday, in May, 2005, when she started to experience extreme tiredness.

The fatigue, coupled with excruciating headaches, led to her taking time off work as a nurse.

She said: "I had not long started work as a nurse, but I soon found it was too hard to cope.

"I had to wait six months before I could see a consultant because of the fatigue. So, in December, I was diagnosed with ME."

But one night in January 2006, she set her alarm for work and when she woke, she found she could not move her right arm.

She said her first thought was: "Oh my God, I'm 27 and I have had a stroke."

A CT scan detected damage to some nerves in her brain.

Other scans followed and doctors told Jo and her husband, Tim, they suspected she had the condition Acute Disseminated Encephalomyelitis, which sometimes occurs after a virus and can cause scarring of the brain tissue.

But fatigue, headaches, and paralysis followed and in August 2005 she was finally diagnosed with MS, a neurological disease in which a patient's nerves are slowly destroyed, affecting movement,

By Debbie Waite

speech and many other body functions.

She said: "On one hand I felt like slipping because at least the MS had been confirmed.

"On the other hand it was very upsetting to know I was just 27 and had MS."

Then, after suffering a huge relapse in September 2006, doctors told her that her MS was particularly aggressive and she was offered chemotherapy.

Her parents moved to Chipping Norton to help with her care and in 2007 she finally gave up all hope of returning to work.

After the chemotherapy therapy, Jo regained some feeling in her hand but was still weak down her right side. Since January, 2007, has had to inject herself every day with a disease-inhibiting drug called Copaxone.

She now uses a motorised scooter to get around.

She said: "MS has changed my life completely.

"My husband, Tim, and I sadly separated.

"Of course I get angry...but my philosophy has always been to just get on with life. As a result, I have done things, met people and set up MSsy."

In 2008, Jo went along to a physio group. She said: "It was a lovely group, but most of the people there were older than me. I wanted to talk to younger people, so I put an advert on the MS Society Internet forum asking if there were other young sufferers in Oxfordshire who wanted to meet up.

"There wasn't a lot of interest at first, but a few of us started to meet and enjoy nights out. There are now around 25 people on the books."

She set up the group MSsy in 2010 and explained: "We decided to call the group MSsy because we are messy, our lives are messy and so is our handwriting."

Since being diagnosed with MS, Jo has also been parachuting to raise funds for her local MS Society branch and, in May, the eighth anniversary of when she first became ill, she abseiled down the front of the JR Hospital, Oxford, for the Radcliffe Trust's Cancer Care Fund.

Through the charity Sportability, she and her fellow MSsy members also regularly enjoy microlighting and gliding.

InBRIEF

School wins sports award

■ SIBFORD School, Banbury, has been recognised for its commitment to sport. The independent Sibford Ferris Quaker school has been awarded a bronze validation under the Government-led Sainsbury's School Games Kitemark. School head of sport Richard Ferley said: "A significant factor in our eligibility for this award is the increased involvement in competitions that our pupils have been able to enjoy."

Cycle link-up

■ NEW safety measures for Banbury cyclists are being drawn up. Oxfordshire County Council is proposing to develop a comprehensive walking and cycle network between Erment Way, Hennef Way and Middleton Road. Minor improvements are also proposed on Daventry Road. It is hoped that the scheme will improve transport links between employment sites in Grimsbury and residential areas. The council's consultation closes on September 27. Visit bit.ly/16ifezN

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Oxford, Banbury & Abingdon areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Illegal workers found at hospitals

ILLEGAL workers and people with a criminal record have been employed at Oxfordshire's hospitals.

Oxford University Hospitals NHS Trust has employed two illegal workers since 2010 and currently has 14 nursing staff with criminal records, Freedom of Information requests have revealed.

The trust employed an illegal immigrant as a linen room assistant at the John Radcliffe Hospital, Oxford, and a nurse at the children's ward in the Horton General in Banbury.

The pair were discovered to be working illegally in 2012 and 2011, respectively, and have since been sacked.

A separate report revealed that 14 nursing staff currently employed by the trust have a criminal record – either a conviction or caution.

The trust said it no longer had details of the crimes because, in line with the Data Protection Act, it had been more than six months since the CRB disclosures.

OUHT deputy director of workforce Carl Jenkinson said:

"Applicants and members of staff with criminal convictions/cautions are subject to robust risk assessments to determine whether they are fit to be employed or be retained given the nature and age of the conviction/caution."

He said both illegal workers provided "full and relevant" documentation to get the jobs, but discrepancies were later found.

NHS Counter Fraud was alerted and, following an investigation, both employees were dismissed.

Cut Out and Save...

Barry Lever (owner) of Complete Eyecare, Banbury explained how his recent investment of over £50,000 in new screening technologies should help reduce the amount of patients seen at the surgeries and hospitals in Oxfordshire with the early onset of sight loss from conditions such as glaucoma, diabetic retinopathy and even cancer in the eye

What is this new technology and what does it do?

We have invested in 2 main pieces of screening equipment in practice this year. The first being a technique called O.C.T, or Ocular Coherence Tomography. Using light rays in a similar manner to ultra sound we are able to scan the retina at the back of the eye and more importantly all the sub layers beneath this, which are not visible when performing a standard eye test.

Our other investment has been in the monitoring of Macular Degeneration. We are the only practice in Banbury to offer MPS screening to our patients.

This equipment calculates your individual Macular Pigment Density levels enabling us to give advice on how to increase those levels.

How does OCT work and how much does it cost?

Because OCT uses light rays like ultrasound uses sound, it means we can now go beneath the surface of the retina and macula to detect early changes in the cellular structure at the back of the eye. In a lot of cases before any permanent damage to vision has occurred.

We can pinpoint where the issue is and with amazingly detailed reporting give your GP everything needed to best refer you for successful treatment.

At £40.00 per patient this screening is perfect in giving our patients peace of mind that their eyes are healthy. To our knowledge this equipment isn't available with any group opticians in Banbury.

What is Macular Degeneration and why screen for it?

AMD or Age Related Macular Degeneration is the leading cause of blindness in people in their over 80's.

The macula is the most central and sensitive area at the back of the eye. It is protected by a yellow pigment which blocks harmful blue light from the sun from damaging the macula.

Age, smoking, poor diet and genetics have all been linked to the reduction in density of this pigment. People suffering from Macular Degeneration suffer severely with loss of central vision, distorted images and loss of colours in everything they see.

By the time the symptoms of AMD are obvious it can be too late to do anything about your vision loss. Screening for your pigment density gives us an accurate idea of your risks from AMD.

How can you reduce the risk of AMD?

If your screening shows that you have a low pigment density, there are a variety of specialised supplements which can be taken. You can look more closely at your diet, increasing the amount of fresh vegetables and fish. You can stop smoking and possibly reduce alcohol intake. All of which have been shown to effect pigment.

■ Crimes cost is cut by £144,000

82 criminals win help to go straight

A SCHEME aimed at cutting the number of convicted criminals reoffending in the county has been hailed a success.

There are 82 Oxfordshire criminals on the Integrated Offender Management (IOM) scheme, run by Thames Valley Police.

The force says that, due to the initiative, re-arrests of those taking part have fallen 54 per cent in the first six months of the year compared to the same period last year. It estimates this has reduced the cost of crimes they commit by £144,120.

The aim of the project is to manage the small number of offenders who cause a disproportionate amount of crime.

This includes supporting the probation service and other agencies in securing housing, employment, or help with drug and alcohol addiction, in the hope of cutting down on their offending.

The criminals in the scheme are closely monitored and, if they do not take up the support and commit crime, they are arrested and taken to prison.

Chief Insp Jason Purnell, Thames Valley Police lead for IOM, said: "By tackling the problems which cause an individual to offend, their need to commit crime is often removed and their re-offending reduces as a result.

"IOM can make a real difference to reducing offending in our communities and I am pleased with the results the team has had so far this year, which shows in real terms the reduction in the cost of crime."

Thames Valley Police refused to provide a list of those participating in the scheme.

Verdicts from magistrates' courts around the county

■ GREG AUSTIN, 21, of Belgrave Crescent, Banbury, admitted failing to protect a black and white male cat named Bobbin from pain, suffering, injury or disease by failing to adequately treat his flea infestation between December 3 last year and January 1 last year in Belgrave Crescent, Banbury. Fun at the Feastival ... and for dessert, a Samba finale

By Marc Evans

THE self-styled Cotswolds Supergroup rounded off Oxfordshire's festival season in Samba-style at Alex James and Jamie Oliver's Big Feastival.

The Blur bassist and the celebrity chef – and part-time drummer – joined the eccentric Latin group the Cuban Brothers on stage at the food and music festival on Mr James' farm in Kingham.

The festival, in its second year under the current promotions team, enjoyed glorious weather and packed crowds for its mix of bands, singers, cooking demonstrations, childrens' activities and crafts.

Take That star Mark Owen, hip hop group Rizzle Kicks, soul singer Lianne La Havas, dance duo Basement Jaxx, singer-songwriter KT Tunstall, popsters The Feeling and DJ Norman Jay provided the musical highlights during the festival, which opened on Friday and closed on Sunday night.

On the cooking front, TV chefs Rachel Khoo, of The Little Paris Kitchen, and Valentine Warner were joined by Michelin-starred Tom Kitchin and Mr Oliver's mentor, Gennaro Contaldo, and others to share a few recipe tips, while children's entertainer Justin Fletcher, of CBeebies, got things under way on the main stage on Sunday.

Mr Oliver said: "It's all about family, music and food."

"It's an eccentric festival and quite geeky, but it's about looking after the parents and the kids."

Father-of-five Mr James added: "It's one of my highlights of the year. My kids go absolutely crackers for it."

"It's a hell of a lot of work but it's a dream come true, really.

"Jamie and I went down on Friday night and saw all the lights and the dads dancing with their children on their shoulders and it almost moved me to tears."

Giles Hill, 40, from Finstock, enjoyed a roaring trade over the weekend with his Paelleria, dishing up about 2,000 portions of the Spanish food.

He said: "We were here last year and I would say it seems about 25 per cent bigger this time. We had people queueing across the field."

Also doing a good trade was Oxford's Big Bang.

The restaurant was selling its speciality sausages for foodies to cook on the barbecues provided on site or to take home.

Stall worker Ben Ashton, 15, said: "We've had a pretty good response. We've sold out of guinea fowl and ginger."

Saturday was a sell-out, while figures for Sunday were still being added up – but organisers had expected there to have been about 20,000 visitors during the festival.

Injury time shock for Utd

BANBURY United suffered a last-gasp agony as they went down to an injury-time defeat at Spencer Stadium on Saturday.

The result condemned Banbury to their third Premier Division defeat. With the game going into injury time, Banbury had hopes of holding on for a point after Kynan Isaac cancelled out Alex Ferguson's opener, but Connor Waldron put paid to that. Banbury started the brighter and almost went ahead on eight minutes. Isaac's cross found Adeyinka Talabi, but his shot was blocked. Banbury continued to dominate, with Tom Ryan's header going narrowly past the far post.

Banbury United (Isaac 80)	1
Frome Town (Ferguson 45+1, Walden 90+1)	2

The hosts had a lucky escape when Ferguson hit the Banbury bar. However, they did not heed the warning and Frome went ahead five minutes before half-time. Ferguson broke through the Banbury defence before lifting the ball over Ben McNamara from just outside the penalty area. Banbury went close to levelling a minute after the re-start. Isaac cut inside and saw Darren Chitty palm away his shot. Banbury pushed for an equaliser and it arrived 11 minutes from time. Isaac ran on to a through ball, outpacing a Frome defender before lobbing the advancing Chitty from the edge of the penalty area. Two minutes, Chitty denied Adeyinka Talabi with a super save. But a minute into stoppage time, Waldron headed in the winner for Frome to ruin Banbury's day. Banbury Utd: McNamara, Blossom, Westwood, Bridges, Mbamarah, Ryan, Talabi, Fraser-Allen, Menezes (Pinto 63), Isaac, Morgan (Soetan 90). Subs not used: McNulty, Kemoagna, Martin. Attendance: 182.

LIBRA
Your destiny is presenting itself to you, so why are you not taking any notice Libra? Your ruling planet Venus is trying to draw your attention to those who drain you, but you're wasting valuable time. Mars causes friction in a family situation which would be better handled with one on one talks rather than group arguments. Give me a ring now to hear how new romances link to travel.

SCORPIO
If you decide to hang on to bad memories from the past then you are going to feel down and depressed. Focus on all that can be done in the here and now though. The future is bright, all you have to do is start to make the choices rather than allowing others to tell you what you can and cannot do my friend. Give me a call to make peace with those distanced family members.

It's growing pains again with laughter and tears

THE WAY WAY BACK (12A, 103 mins) Comedy/Drama/Romance. Liam James, Toni Collette, Steve Carell, Zoe Levin, Sam Rockwell, AnnaSophia Robb, Allison Janney, Rob Corrdry, Amanda Peet, Maya Rudolph, River Alexander. Directors: Nat Faxon, Jim Rash.

Drawing obvious comparisons with Little Miss Sunshine, The Way Way Back is a bittersweet coming-of-age story that strikes the perfect balance between laughter and tears.

First-time directors Nat Faxon and Jim Rash have fashioned a near perfect portrait of adolescent angst that eschews mawkish sentimentality yet still manages to tug the heartstrings with aplomb.

Our affection for the film's painfully shy, teenage hero is galvanised in a blistering opening scene in which the lad is asked by his mother's new boyfriend to rate himself out of 10.

"I don't know – six?" responds the lad nervously, after a considerable amount of deliberation.

"I think you're a three," retorts the boyfriend coldly, who clearly hasn't read the chapter on positive encouragement in his parenting handbook.

Fourteen-year-old Duncan (Liam James) wanted to spend the summer vacation with his father in San Diego. Instead, he's being forced to tolerate a holiday on the East Coast with his mother Pam (Toni Collette), her new boyfriend Trent (Steve Carell) and Trent's tearaway teenage daughter Steph (Zoe Levin), who doesn't want to be lumbered with a socially awkward misfit like Duncan when she could be sunbathing with her gal pals.

Feeling desperately alone in Trent's beach house, Duncan ventures to a nearby Water Wizz theme park where the wise-cracking owner Owen (Sam Rockwell) takes pity on the miserable teenager and hires him for the summer.

"I need someone to do some odd jobs, clean up some vomit," grins Owen.

Keeping the job secret from his mother, Duncan gains confidence under his reckless mentor, who only has eyes for his sassy employee, Caitlin (Maya Rudolph). The lad musters the courage to strike up a conversation with Susanna (AnnaSophia Robb), who lives in a neighbouring beach house with her boozy and indiscreet mother, Betty (Allison Janney).

Meanwhile, Pam's relationship with Trent shows signs of wear and tear, exacerbated by the continued presence of his vivacious friend Joan (Amanda Peet) and her clueless partner, Kip (Rob Corrdry). The Way Way Back is a delight.

Faxon and Rash's first feature navigates a haphazard path through Duncan's growing pains with tenderness. The script spares the characters few blushes as they seek tiny glimmers of self-fulfilment.

James delivers an impressive, emotionally raw performance, and he is the perfect foil for Rockwell's wise-cracking man-child. Janney is a hoot as the mother from hell, who has no concept of personal boundaries or social graces when the liquor is flowing.

She scoffs at the health risks of overexposure to the sun – "Screw cancer. I want to be even golden brown everywhere!" – and humiliates her self-conscious, cross-eyed son (River Alexander) by telling Duncan to "just stare at the bridge of his nose". A mother's love: it cuts to the bone.

Duster cleans up as sales success

By David Duffy

A FORMER colleague who rang asking for advice on buying a new car to replace her ageing classic Mini knew exactly what she wanted — and didn't want.

"I don't need air conditioning, electric windows, or a sunroof. Basically I want a dog kennel on wheels."

Good luck with that I thought quietly to myself, as even bargain basement cars now come equipped with everything from onboard computers to iPod connectors, whether you want them or not.

But the ability to pay for only what you really value on a car and keep prices rock-bottom, was recognised by Romanian firm Dacia as a route to sales success, helping to turn it into the IKEA of the car-making world.

Dacia's first model since being taken over by the Renault Group in 1999 was the Logan saloon, selling for just 5,000 euros in Romania. Soaring demand for its cars across Europe and North Africa — left-hand-drive naturally — has made Dacia the fastest-growing automotive brand in Europe for eight years in a row, which is why the UK and Ireland have had to wait so long for right-hand-drive cars to be produced.

Now the range has arrived in the UK with the Sandero supermini, Sandero Stepway crossover from May, the five-seater estate Logan MCV and the Duster off-roader.

The Indian-built Duster, which is priced from £8,995, delivers a family-sized sports utility vehicle, in both 4x4 and front-wheel-drive versions, for less than most superminis. Even the air-conditioned, top-of-the-range Lauréate model tested here costs less than the cheapest version of the Ford Focus and its muscly, flared wheelarched package is packed with surprises. First and foremost, the Duster is astonishingly well built. The interior might have its share of hard plastic surfaces, but they are livened up with satin chrome trim, piano black finishes and crucially there are no bangs, squeaks or rattles.

Steering is nicely weighted and the ride is surprisingly quiet and smooth, erring on the side of comfort rather than pin-point handling, which is just fine as that suits the character of the car perfectly. Power came from a 1.5-litre diesel engine, delivering 110 horsepower, through a slick, six-speed manual gearbox, which is clearly geared for economy.

Dacia keeps its costs down by building every model on the same platform, sharing parts, including engines and transmissions, with other Dacia and Renault-Nissan alliance vehicles.

My former colleague eventually decided to spend more than £2,000 returning her classic Mini into sparkling as-new condition.

Newcarnews

Hybrid Range Rovers cut fuel consumption

LAND Rover has released details of its first production hybrid sports utility vehicles, which will be capable of 44mpg and be rated at 169g/km of CO2.

The figures, shared across the Range Rover Hybrid and Range Rover Sport Hybrid, are a significant improvement on the standard diesel drivetrain's 37.7mpg and 196g/km in the latest Range Rover, but the firm claims that the new system offers performance on a par with the exceptional SDV8 models.

Power is put to the road through an eight-speed ZF gearbox. The entire hybrid system weighs 120kg, making it relatively lightweight for its type. It produces 125lb.ft of torque to add to the engine's output and can even power the car independently.

Using a driver-selectable EV mode, the Range Rover Hybrids will be able to drive at up to 30mph on electric power only for a range of up to a mile.

As such, the hybrid system is designed only as a supplement to reduce load on the engine, reducing fuel consumption by making life easier for the diesel V6.

The drivetrain's combined output is 336bhp and 516lb.ft, the latter coming between 1,500rpm and 3,000rpm. Land Rover says that both models will accelerate to 62mph in less than seven seconds, while top speed is 135mph, or 140mph for the Sport.

The latest generation models were designed with the integration of a hybrid system in mind. The liquid-cooled battery pack is mounted beneath the floor of the vehicle in a protective boron-steel cradle without impacting on the cabin or luggage space.

■ THE new Volkswagen Golf R will be able to sprint to 62mph in an unprecedented 4.9 seconds, the company has revealed. This astonishing pace, which comes when the Golf R is specified with a twin-clutch automatic DSG gearbox, makes it as fast away from the lights as older sports cars like the Ferrari 355, the 4.0-litre TVR Cerbera and the Caterham 7 R300. The car will star on the Volkswagen stand at the Frankfurt Motor Show, with a UK on-sale date to be confirmed after that time.

■ The new Insignia is the most aerodynamic car in its class, according to claims being made by Vauxhall. Thanks to a series of small changes to the bodywork and air flow management, engineers have reduced the drag coefficient to less than 0.25 for the hatchback. New underbody covers clean up the air flow, while wider front spoiler lips, tail lamp housings are designed to enhance airflow.
